I. PROJECT DESCRIPTION

In line with its mandate to promote renewable energy and serve as a social enterprise in marginalized areas, the Philippine National Oil Company (PNOC) is implementing hybrid solar-wind energy projects with battery storage systems. These aim to improve energy access in Geographically Isolated and Disadvantaged Areas (GIDA), specifically within the NPC-SPUG areas in Masbate Province.

This project will serve as a working “proof of concept for hybrid solar and wind installations” with integrated battery systems. PNOC hereby seeks proposals for the supply, installation, and commissioning of three (3) units of 5kW hybrid solar-wind systems.

II. PROPOSED PROJECT SITE

2. Identified Households in Nagarao Micro Grid, Placer Masbate Province
3. Nabuctot DPP Compound, Placer Masbate Province

III. PROJECT DEVELOPMENT DURATION

The contract period shall be seventy-five (75) calendar days reckoned from the receipt of Notice to Proceed. The equipment shall be delivered, installed, tested and commissioned at the Project Sites. The Contractor shall be responsible for taking reference to its accessibility, means of transportation and all other factors that could hamper the smooth execution of the contract.

Any and/or all expenses arising through the lack of knowledge of the Contractor regarding the existing conditions of the delivery point shall be his responsibility and no additional payment thereof shall be made by PNOC.

The operation of the system shall immediately commence upon commissioning of the project.

The Cooperation Period for electricity services to the Project Sites shall be one (1) year from the commencement of Operation.

1.3. Methodology Requirements

1.3.1. Project Planning and Preparation

The Contractor shall begin by thoroughly reviewing the project scope, which involves the design, manufacturing, supply, and installation of three (3) 5 kW hybrid solar/wind systems with battery storage. A comprehensive project plan shall be prepared, detailing key tasks, timelines, and responsibilities. Site assessments will be conducted to evaluate physical conditions and determine suitability for system installation. The Contractor shall also prepare signed and sealed electrical and fencing plans by a licensed professional engineer. These documents shall be included in an Inception Report submitted to PNOC.

1.3.2. Equipment Procurement and Delivery

The Contractor shall select a reputable supplier capable of providing high-quality systems and components that meet the project specifications. Once selected, orders for the necessary equipment will be placed, and the transportation of this equipment from the supplier's facility to the project sites will be carefully coordinated.

1.3.3. Site Preparation

The Contractor shall clear the designated sites of any obstruction that may interfere with the system's installation. Subsequently, the foundations for the system will be prepared, ensuring they are level and stable. Any necessary electrical infrastructure at the project site, including conduits, cables, and junction boxes, will also be installed during this phase.

1.3.4. System Installation

The Contractor shall mount the solar panels on the prepared mounting structures, ensuring proper orientation and spacing. The wind turbines will then be installed on their foundations, ensuring they are securely anchored and aligned. All system components will be connected using appropriate cables and connectors, and the system will be integrated with the existing electrical infrastructure at the project sites.

1.3.5. Testing and Commissioning

The Contractor shall test each component of the system to verify proper operation. A commissioning report documenting the successful installation and operation will be prepared. As-built plans, signed and sealed by a professional engineer, will also be submitted. Comprehensive operation and maintenance training will be provided to the personnel assigned to the system, along with a comprehensive manual related to the design application, operation, maintenance and calibration (including troubleshooting) of the system and all relevant equipment as specified in these documents.

1.3.6. Manual

At least forty-five (45) days prior to testing and commissioning, the Contractor shall submit two draft sets of Operation and Maintenance (O&M) Manuals for PNOC's review and approval. Final submission shall include two hard copies and one electronic copy. Manuals must contain parts lists, maintenance schedules, troubleshooting guides, and detailed repair procedures. All documentation shall be device-specific, using metric A4 sheets and A3 foldouts where applicable, with durable, oil-resistant covers.

1.3.7. Spare Parts, Tools, and Consumables
